About This Game

What would you say regarding what you have been through; happenstance, or result of your actions ?

Our main character, Nil, is a professional thief. She makes contracts and brings whatever the employers want; but things don't always go smoothly of course. Her next task is to steal a red pouch. Nil is staying at a hotel outside of the town and sees this situation as a golden opportunity. The strange feeling that she has had since she arrived at the hotel will not prove her wrong. What she experiences after stealing the pouch is very traumatic for her. While she cannot make sense of what is happening around her, she still wants to finish the task. Help Nil steal the pouch and figure out what is happening at the hotel.

I mean... wow. What makes this game 22$? (CAD) Awful English voice acting and subtitles, I mean it's easy to get by if that was the only thing wrong but, I start into the game and im driving like RE7, but up to a hotel. I guess I got out because im not in the car anymore, go to touch my mouse and instant whiplash of motion blur and insane sensitivity. Turn down the sensitivity but I don't see an option for motion blur... um.. ok. Sensitivity or mouse control rather just feel bad even with low sensitivity, and yea, the graphics aren't anything special. Inside the hotel (the only stage I got to before getting bugged out and refunding) was nearly symmetrical and had an elevator for what appeared to be 2 floors that seemed like they would be faster to run up and down (as you have infinit sprint, sprinting inside a hotel btw), I need a wifi password as the next objective and then i see an e-mail with a picture of my target. It says I need to steal his key but my character says 'I hope hes still sleeping' I don't know whether she means the guest or I need to steal something from the guy at the front. I go to the front and hes sleeping, start walking around, and then he wakes up and I get a 'MISSION FAILED' across my screen in black and white and puts my back into my room. The MISSION FAILED does not go away, the black and white does, but the blur of everything behind the MISSION FAILED text doesn't go away either. I go downstairs again with this text across my screen and again he wakes up and it resets me to my room with the text still there. Nice bug.. I was looking for a good horror game, maybe some jumpscares, I don't like to give negative reviews but almost nothing happens...it doesn't even create the atmosphere of fear and the graphics are really outdated, which I usually surpass when is an indie game...but when nothing is what I get when they promise an horror game experience...it's frustrating. Getting a refund. Sorry.
